SPECIAL NOTES

IT IS IMPORTANT THAT THE RESEARCHER READ THE FOLLOWING
NOTES IN ORDER TO GAIN THE MAXIMUM BENEFIT FROM THIS INDEX AND THE 1920 CENSUS SCHEDULE THAT IT REPRESENTS.

Handwriting varies greatly within most census schedules. This particular census of Jefferson County contains twelve pages of especially poor handwriting. Most surnames are unreadable, as well as many given names. Fortunately, these difficult pages enumerate a portion of Steubenville City. By comparing the streets and house numbers as given in the census against the same information given in the Steubenville City Directories, most families were identified.

For the twelve difficult pages, the names given in this index reflect the information contained in the directories rather than the census itself. An effort was made to decipher the names not found in the directories, but the handwriting is so poor that no claim to accuracy is possible. They are included only because they might offer clues to more discerning eyes.

Each of the surnames contained in those twelve pages, regardless of accuracy, is followed by a question mark (?) in this index. In each case, the mark indicates exactly what it implies--doubt about accuracy.

Apart from the above problem, another appears with enough frequency to cause confusion for the incautious researcher. In some cases it happens that a family is divided between the end of a page and the beginning of the next one. In some cases, where the surname is repeated on the second page, it is spelled differently from the first page. These specific cases are listed below, together with the page numbers where they occur.

52A1/52B1	-	ZDNIAK / ZDINAK
84A1/84B1	-	MULDOON / MULDOOM
147A1/147B1	-	HOALICEK / HAOLICEK
148A1/148B1	-	KUCKLI / HUCKLI
149A1/149B1	-	WEUS / WEISS
149B1/150A1	-	BOROCOKY / BOROWSKY

Acknowledgment

The Jefferson County Chapter of the Ohio Genealogical Society hereby gratefully recognizes Richard Roe's tedious indexing of the entire 1920 Jefferson County, Ohio census. This is a rare document since previous census index only list heads of household, whereas Mr. Roe has included every name thereby preserving the historical and genealogical records of 1920 Jefferson County, Ohio

1920 CENSUS OF JEFFERSON COUNTY, OHIO

INTRODUCTION

Census records, being handwritten, can be difficult to read, decipher and interpret, especially since we are so far removed in time from the questions and answers between the enumerator and the respondent. The names and numbers on paper (reproduced on film) as we read them depend on how clearly the respondent spoke and how accurately the enumerator heard. Spelling, for example, is often based on phonetics--and imagination: what the enumerator heard within the context of his own knowledge and prejudices.

The types of errors outlined on the previous two pages are only the most obvious. In any census, every name and fact must be viewed with eyes ready to doubt what they read. Small errors are not so obvious, but they can create havoc within an index such as this one. One misplaced letter at the beginning of a surname can put that name far out of place from where it should be. But nothing can be assumed by the indexer. Many names are subject to a variety of spellings. Each variation may be claimed as the correct one by a particular branch of that family. For this reason, and to preserve the integrity of the originals, the census records have been copied as they were written, including all obvious mistakes. It must also be noted that many of odd spellings reflect the whims of the enumerator, but may reflect the whims of a particular family. Take every fact at face value until it can be proved otherwise.

The modern researcher should be aware that strange handwritings can be very deceptive. It is easy to confuse o's and a's, e's and i's, s's and r's, and others. Among capital letters, L's, S's and T's are especially troublesome. Substitutions and trial and error are often the cure for mysterious or missing names.

In the index that occupies the following pages, a few conventions have been adopted to help avoid confusion for the researcher.

An asterisk (*) beside a given-name denotes the head of household.

A lower case (m) or (f) refers to the gender of the individual where the given-name might be misinterpreted as to male or female. Even eighty years ago, girls were named Sidney, while boys were named Pearl or Shirley.

IV

The format of this index proceeds from several facts about this census for this county. The census is contained on two rolls of microfilm, covering the townships as outlined in the table of Contents.

The page number beside each name refers to the printed (stamped) number of the original records at the top of each page somewhere to the right of the center of the page. Near the right hand corner is a large, printed A or B. A page as given by the number is actually divided into two parts, as designated by the letter. For example, 21A and 21B. Each sheet contains fifty lines for names, so that a full page contains one hundred names (if all the lines are used).

Based on the above, the page numbers given in this index contain both the number and the letter: that is, 21B, 36A, 36B, 266A, etc. Since this census is contained on two separate rolls of microfilm, another digit has been added to designate the particular roll of film, thus: 126B1 or 57A2.

Of special importance is the fact that Reel #2 is divided into two separate sequences of numbers. The reel begins with page 1A and proceeds through page 267B. At that point, approximately midway through the reel, page numbers re-begin at another page 1A and continue on to page 301B. Page numbers for this second sequence of numbers are denoted by the addition of a plus (+) sign. As example: 126B2+.

In the SPECIAL NOTES, and in the first two paragraphs of this Introduction, it has been emphasized that even the most common surname may be spelled in a variety of ways from how it is usually seen. To aid the researcher in finding these unusual spellings, they have been incorporated within the index itself, as notes to the particular surname as it is usually spelled. As example: you are researching the JOHNSON family. Go to the beginning of the list of this surname. Under the proper spelling, you will be referred to any variations that occur within this census.

Be aware at all times while using this index or while searching the pages of the census schedule itself, that any surname you seek may be misspelled any number of ways. The particular family you seek may have been the "victim" of the census enumerator's misunderstanding. Do not assume that any surname has always been spelled the way it "should be."

The index begins on the next page.
